

NUMBER OF "WANTS" IN THE LAST 12 MONTHS.
THE WORLD IS
674,520.
THE "WANT" MEDIUM.
Daily Average, 1,848.

PRICE ONE CENT.

TITANS' WORK

The Colossal Task of Digging Out and Rebuilding Johnstown.

Seven Thousand Tilters, but Comparatively Little Accomplished.

Diphtheria and Pneumonia Make Their Dreaded Appearance.

Martial Law to Be Inaugurated Throughout the Valley To-Morrow.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 11.—The one topic of interest among the people of ruined Johnstown is the rebuilding of the town and the resumption of business.

Minds that would suffer because of the loss of family and friends are kept occupied by the gigantic undertaking which is about to be put in operation.

A GIANTIC UNDERTAKING.

Seven thousand men are working like beavers among the wreckage, and have been laboring with enthusiastic fervor for ten days, yet there is little apparent effect. A stranger gazing upon the valley for the first time might imagine that nothing had been done since the visitation of the flood.

EVERY ONE PUT TO WORK.

Yet much has been accomplished, and the work is going steadily forward under the supervision of competent men. No loungers are permitted. Everybody must work or "move on."

The other day a carload of coffins was deposited on one side of the bridge over the Conemaugh, and every man who wished to pass over the bridge and enter the town was obliged to take a coffin on his shoulder and carry it across the bridge. This was the toll, and for two hours there was a straggling procession, each member carrying a coffin. Two Evening World artists paid this singular and ghastly toll.

TO OPEN THE CAMBRIA'S WORKS.

Manager Fulton, of the Cambria Iron Works, has been clearing away the wreckage in the shops, clearing the machinery and preparing for a reopening of the mill. The men are working with much more cheerfulness than in the past. They will have the machinery of the upper mills running full head in two weeks, but the steel annex further down the stream, and at the edge of the gorge above, will not be ready to run before October.

The Johnson Switch Company, whose works at Woodville were entirely swept away, began in a day or two to build again on the hillside, out of all danger of another flood. They employed 1,200 men, and in the new works at Moxham will employ a still larger force.

ROUNDABOUT TRAIN SERVICE.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has been doing great work, too. Trains are now running to Mineral Point, but Johnstown gets its only connection with the East by way of the Baltimore and Ohio road, making the distance twenty-eight hours from New York.

WORK BY ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The Westinghouse Electric Light Company have erected a dynamo and the glow of night is made much more cheerful, while much work is being done in the glare of the artificial suns.

BOOTH & FLYNN'S VOLUNTEERS.

Booth & Flynn's 5,000 men are still at work clearing up the town. They are receiving $3 a day, and are quartered in the old Hotel Gen. Hastings, who will be at the head of the provisional government which will be inaugurated to-morrow, says that $1.50 a day, which will be the uniform pay to laborers, and it is probable that many of the men will leave for their homes, as they can earn as much at Pittsburgh, with less danger to their health and much more comfort in the way of fare and sleeping accommodation.

POLICE AND DEPUTY SHERIFFS TO GO.

Cambria County will have to pay ten days' salary to 400 special policemen and 300 deputy sheriffs, who have guarded the town since the disaster. They will be dismissed to-morrow on the inauguration of the provisional government.

Kernsley, Conemaugh and Woodhill are under their proper governments, and are taking care of their own affairs.

CAMP FOR REFUGEES.

Nine and a half acres of land below Homestead will be devoted by Gen. Hastings to a refugee camp, and here will be left standing by the flood will be relieved.

MILLIONS OF FEET OF NEW LUMBER.

Two million feet of lumber has been ordered by the Cambria Iron Company for the rebuilding of the homes of the employes, but nothing can be done in this direction until the Pennsylvania Railroad is once more in operation.

SYSTEMATIC CHARITY.

Over one hundred and fifty car-loads of provisions, clothing, implements and other necessities have arrived from all directions within forty-eight hours, and have been promptly stored away at the various supply stations by the Contractors Committee. The supplies are distributed with more deliberation and care now, and fewer misadventures of charity occur.

MORE BODIES FOUND.

Thirty-five more bodies have been recovered. They were in a horrible condition, some decomposed, black as negroes, and emitting a nauseating odor, while those which had been buried were even worse. Most of them were unrecognizable.

A space about 100 by 300 feet has been cleared in the 60 acres of debris at the bridge, and fifty axemen arrived from Pittsburgh have been added to the force of workers on the mass.

BUSINESS STARTING INTO LIFE.

Life is resuming. A photographer who had to swim for his life on that awful Friday night is advertising. Photographs of the ruins. A shoe dealer has opened two rescued cases of goods on the ground where his store once stood, and announces that he has "resumed."

CONTRACT TO CLEAN THE VALLEY.

Gov. Beaver, operating under the general police power of the State, declares the

THE CRISIS APPROACHING IN CORONER HERTY'S INVESTIGATION.

Senior Guardian Beggs, of Camp 96, Now Implicated.

He and Sullivan and Three Others Likely to Be Arrested.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
CHICAGO, June 11.—The general opinion is that the authorities have come nearly to the end of their material witnesses in the Cronin case, and it would not surprise any one if the coroner should promptly submit the case to the jury.

John F. Beggs, the attorney for Alexander Sullivan, who is also Senior Guardian of Camp 96, to which Cronin belonged, it is said, has been fully identified as the person who superintended the removal of the furniture from 117 Clark street to the Carbons' cottage.

The coroner himself has gone so far as to say that Beggs "is in it deep," and the identification of Martin as the expressman, is sufficient to justify the belief.

In Chicago, Beggs is regarded as one of the men whom Sullivan employed to do his work, and he is a mere tool in the hands of the leaders of the Chicago tripartite.

Although he is not yet under arrest, it is understood that if no more important evidence is produced, i. e., with Sullivan and three others, it will be taken into custody pending the action of the Grand Jury.

As to the effect of the evidence in implicating Alexander Sullivan in the murder of Dr. Cronin, it is not yet clear. It is the opinion of the Grand Jury that it constitutes grounds for suspicion.

It is likely that to-morrow the papers of Dr. Cronin will be read aloud, and that shortly after that the jury will retire to consider the verdict. What it will be is an open secret. Those who are in jail will probably stay there, and there may be one more to join them.

A special Grand Jury to investigate the Cronin murder will be called as soon as the coroner's jury has rendered its verdict. The special Grand Jury will be called as soon as the coroner's jury has rendered its verdict.

On Jan. 18 he wrote Miss Farley a letter, in which he asked her good qualities and a lull in his embarrased financial condition, and said that he would not be able to do what he thought he would—meaning marriage.

Miss Farley then brought suit through De Lancy Nicol.

Slevin's defense was that he never bore the evidence which was produced. He was considerably "rattled" while on the stand, and from his testimony it would appear that he had gone into the matter for the purpose of getting a good deal of money.

After the verdict was given this morning, Lawyer Johnson who appeared for Slevin, made a motion for a stay of judgment for thirty days in which he was successful.

Farley, the plaintiff's father, is a quiet man, but chucked to himself over the verdict. He said that his daughter only wanted satisfaction for his wounded feelings, and the amount of the verdict was no object.

BASEBALL STANDING THIS MORNING.

The League.

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 Chicago 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 St. Louis 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

St. Louis 25 8 .758 Philadelphia 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

CROWN'S REMOVAL.

The Crisis Approaching in Coroner Herty's Investigation.

Senior Guardian Beggs, of Camp 96, Now Implicated.

He and Sullivan and Three Others Likely to Be Arrested.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
CHICAGO, June 11.—The general opinion is that the authorities have come nearly to the end of their material witnesses in the Cronin case, and it would not surprise any one if the coroner should promptly submit the case to the jury.

John F. Beggs, the attorney for Alexander Sullivan, who is also Senior Guardian of Camp 96, to which Cronin belonged, it is said, has been fully identified as the person who superintended the removal of the furniture from 117 Clark street to the Carbons' cottage.

The coroner himself has gone so far as to say that Beggs "is in it deep," and the identification of Martin as the expressman, is sufficient to justify the belief.

In Chicago, Beggs is regarded as one of the men whom Sullivan employed to do his work, and he is a mere tool in the hands of the leaders of the Chicago tripartite.

Although he is not yet under arrest, it is understood that if no more important evidence is produced, i. e., with Sullivan and three others, it will be taken into custody pending the action of the Grand Jury.

As to the effect of the evidence in implicating Alexander Sullivan in the murder of Dr. Cronin, it is not yet clear. It is the opinion of the Grand Jury that it constitutes grounds for suspicion.

It is likely that to-morrow the papers of Dr. Cronin will be read aloud, and that shortly after that the jury will retire to consider the verdict. What it will be is an open secret. Those who are in jail will probably stay there, and there may be one more to join them.

A special Grand Jury to investigate the Cronin murder will be called as soon as the coroner's jury has rendered its verdict. The special Grand Jury will be called as soon as the coroner's jury has rendered its verdict.

On Jan. 18 he wrote Miss Farley a letter, in which he asked her good qualities and a lull in his embarrased financial condition, and said that he would not be able to do what he thought he would—meaning marriage.

Miss Farley then brought suit through De Lancy Nicol.

Slevin's defense was that he never bore the evidence which was produced. He was considerably "rattled" while on the stand, and from his testimony it would appear that he had gone into the matter for the purpose of getting a good deal of money.

After the verdict was given this morning, Lawyer Johnson who appeared for Slevin, made a motion for a stay of judgment for thirty days in which he was successful.

Farley, the plaintiff's father, is a quiet man, but chucked to himself over the verdict. He said that his daughter only wanted satisfaction for his wounded feelings, and the amount of the verdict was no object.

BASEBALL STANDING THIS MORNING.

The League.

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 Chicago 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 St. Louis 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

St. Louis 25 8 .758 Philadelphia 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

Philadelphia 25 8 .758 St. Louis 17 20 .459 Boston 15 14 .519 Chicago 14 14 .500

Win. Lost. Per.

HUMIDITY REIGNS.

Gothamites Had Two Degrees More to Contend With To-Day.

The Light Showers This Morning Partially Cooled the City.

Sergt. Dunn Holds Out a Few Comforting Predictions.

Gothamites had very little starch left in them after yesterday's battle with old General Humidity, and that little was knocked silly this morning when they woke up and found that they had two extra degrees to contend with.

The moisture-laden cloud that has settled over the city for the past two days was heavier and more oppressive than ever. It was almost suffocating indoors and hardly a breath of air was stirring without.

When the sun came out and struck through the misty, misty atmosphere one could not form any comparison with the general state of caloric that prevailed.

Fortunately this didn't last long, for shortly after 10 o'clock the sky cleared and the sun came out. It was a relief to the city, but the humidity was still there, and it was not long before it was back again.

"It won't last long, however," he added, encouragingly, "for the reports show a high barometer all over the country east of the Mississippi Valley, and there has been a big drop in temperature all through the West."

"The cool weather is gradually working its way East and will get here in good order late this afternoon."

"You needn't be afraid that it won't come, for it's bound to, although it does not look very promising just now. The warm strip is now in the States bordering on the sea coast."

There may be a shower or two, but it will only be local. In fact I can see it raining now and then, but it will all clear off and be nice and cool to-night."

Reports showed that the temperature of Buffalo this morning was 56, at Chicago 54, St. Louis 58 and Denver and Cheyenne 46. New Orleans was 74, the same as New York, and the hottest place in the country is Key West, where it is 82.

Sergt. Dunn yesterday predicted tornadoes in the northern part of the State, and the reports this morning showed that he was correct.

The wind-torn in that section were even more serious than he had anticipated. To-day, he says, there may be more of the same kind, but they are likely to occur further west.

The rain which began just before noon did much to cool off the air, and according to the report of the Weather it is the precursor of a change in the temperature. He promises 10 degrees at least.

ANOTHER ROMANCE LOST.

GIACOMA ANTONIO DE STEFANO IS NOT AN ITALIAN BRIGAND.

Glaring through the iron-barred window of his cell in the Castle Garden prison this morning Giacomantonio de Stefano, the famous Italian brigand, who was landed yesterday from the Gibraltar steamer Victoria, was seen by an EVENING WORLD reporter.

At first sight he was a handsome, romantic-looking outlaw to the reporter, who watched him as he alternately peered through the window or paced up and down the cell like a caged tiger.

After making sure that the cell door was securely fastened the reporter approached close to the window and gazed with mingled awe and admiration upon this representative of the Italian bandit.

All the weird tales that he had ever heard of these gentry dotted through the reporter's brain, and he wondered how many men Giacomantonio had killed.

Also if he were a chain of dried human skulls about his neck as another eminent bandit was said to do.

Looking at the caged brigand it was easily seen that he had a murderous face and would stop at no crime in the pursuit of his ends. He was a man of a certain type, and he was a man of a certain type.

"Why, he is a bloodthirsty brigand," returned THE EVENING WORLD young man, indignantly.

"He is not," said Gallo, "warmly. 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.'"

"He is not," said Gallo, "warmly. 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.'"

CLEVELAND'S BOY FIEND

Precautions Necessary to Save Otto Leuth from Judge Lynch.

His Confession of the Outrage and Butchery of Little Maggie.

One of the Most Cold-Blooded and Horrible Crimes in Modern Records.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
CLEVELAND, June 11.—There is so much feeling against Otto Leuth, the lad who so brutally murdered pretty eight-year-old Maggie Thompson, that the police are taking extra precautions lest the hangman be cheated of his just dues.

The crime is one of the most horrible in modern records, and an EVENING WORLD reporter who saw the victim's body will never be able to efface the awful picture from his brain.

As already printed in THE EVENING WORLD little Maggie, who is the daughter of Jacob Thompson, of 21 Merchant avenue, started from home on May 28 from the Tremont street school only two blocks away. She was not heard from or seen alive after this.

The city and State were thoroughly searched by detectives, constables and citizens in private life, who endeavored to find some trace of the strayed child, but all was in vain.

Not ten doors from the Thompson's house, on Merchant avenue, there is a two-story frame house, occupied by two families. The first floor was lived in by Mr. Henry Leuth, the owner of the house, his wife, and their son, Otto, a boy of sixteen. The old people were out of town at the time of Maggie's disappearance.

At the time the little Thompson girl disappeared Mrs. Leuth was in the hospital, where she was confined for two weeks later. Otto was left as the sole inhabitant of their part of the house.

Otto Leuth is a young fellow about five feet seven inches tall. He has small eyes, a large nose, his upper lip is thin and under one full.

Several times since Maggie Thompson's disappearance he has been seen by a partition so that they were accessible only to the respective tenants. Shortly before the Leuths came back Mrs. Spherell complained to her mother-in-law that the child was out of place. She said she was sickening and she could not stand it.

"I guess some old rat has died in the cellar," she said. "There is an old mattress up in the garret that is pretty rank, too, and it may be that."

Mrs. Spherell saw the boy take a feather-bed from the room after, and the child showed some queer so bad. But when the Leuths returned they noticed the smell, and on Sunday the stench was so intolerable that Mr. Leuth determined on a thorough search of the premises.

Armed with a lamp, he penetrated into the recesses of the dark cellar. There he found the decomposed body of the child, and it made his hair stand on end.

A young girl horribly mutilated was discovered in under one of the vault-like divisions of the cellar. The child was entirely naked, her head had been cut from her body and her right arm was also severed from the trunk. Some old rags were thrown over the little mutilated form.

Poor Leuth rushed upstairs, shaking with fright, told his wife of the horror, and ran as fast as he could to the police station. Coroner Waiz was summoned, and the dead child was removed to the small grave plot in the rear of the house.

Decomposition had set in, and the face was badly swollen. The child was entirely naked, each of which had been crushed in the front. The jawbone was also broken. The child was found in the cellar, and the body was removed to the small grave plot in the rear of the house.

At first sight he was a handsome, romantic-looking outlaw to the reporter, who watched him as he alternately peered through the window or paced up and down the cell like a caged tiger.

After making sure that the cell door was securely fastened the reporter approached close to the window and gazed with mingled awe and admiration upon this representative of the Italian bandit.

All the weird tales that he had ever heard of these gentry dotted through the reporter's brain, and he wondered how many men Giacomantonio had killed.

Also if he were a chain of dried human skulls about his neck as another eminent bandit was said to do.

Looking at the caged brigand it was easily seen that he had a murderous face and would stop at no crime in the pursuit of his ends. He was a man of a certain type, and he was a man of a certain type.

"Why, he is a bloodthirsty brigand," returned THE EVENING WORLD young man, indignantly.

"He is not," said Gallo, "warmly. 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.'"

"He is not," said Gallo, "warmly. 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.'"

"He is not," said Gallo, "warmly. 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.' 'That is a lie that was published about him.'"

DIED AT THE FEAST.

Tragic Ending of a Jubilee at Zion African Methodist Church.

Sister Mary Stints Taken in an Ecstasy of Spiritual Joy.

She Was Addressing the Brethren When She Tattered and Fell Dead.

Death has cast its shadow over the love feast of the Zion African Methodist Church. Sister Mary Stints went to the church full of spiritual exhilaration, and was carried out of it a corpse.

To obtain a needed rest from his clerical labors the Rev. Mr. Walters, the pastor of Zion Church, is going to Europe this Summer, and as his visit may be extended to include a trip to the Holy Land the members of his congregation arranged a love feast.

To show their esteem for the pastor and to give him a good send off for his European tour the members last night held a love-feast. It was not, to be sure, a regular love-feast night, but the importance of bidding the pastor a very pleasant farewell seemed to make a love-feast eminently proper.

The sacred edifice, which is the largest colored church in New York and one of the most earnest churches in the world, was crowded to the doors.

The meeting was one of the most successful ever held in the church.

The singing was superb and the "experiences" were both interesting and encouraging.

There was a general expression of joy and the shouting was so hard as to make it a demonstration.

Everybody was happy and there was some excitement. It was like one of the meetings toward the close of a successful revival.

Among those who spoke was a well-known member of the congregation, Mr. Mary Stints, 341 West Twenty-ninth street.

Her name was called, though expressive of the joy which was general in the church.

She smiled, was sitting in the pew, and speaking and testifying, with her face turned toward the pulpit, she suddenly became very ill.

She was taken down by the pew and started towards the door. Many of the lady members of the church went to her assistance and the sexton ran for a doctor.

She died before the doctor arrived, only a few moments after the physician expired.

The solemn and unexpected incident made much excitement in the church.

She died before the doctor arrived, only a few moments after the physician expired.

The solemn and unexpected incident made much excitement in the church.

She died before the doctor arrived, only a few moments after the physician expired.

The solemn and unexpected incident made much excitement in the church.

She died before the doctor arrived, only a few moments after the physician expired.

The solemn and unexpected incident made much excitement in the church.

She died before the doctor arrived, only a few moments after the physician expired.

The solemn and unexpected incident made much excitement in the church.

She died before the doctor arrived, only a few moments after the physician expired.

READ TO-DAY'S

Evening World Sporting Extra

FOR BEST ACCOUNT OF NEW YORK-BOSTON BASEBALL GAME.

PRICE ONE CENT.

2 O'CLOCK.

ISHEPOWER'S BACKER

Lawyer McGowan Sues the Counties' Leader for $13,000.

He Says He Loaned Money for the Justice's Political Aims.

The Judge Says It's Sheer Blackmail and that the Debt Is Paid.

Police Justice Maurice J. Power is being sued in the Court of Common Pleas by John T. McGowan, lawyer, at 154 Pearl street, for $13,000, which Mr. McGowan alleges is coming to him on old loans to Mr. Power.

McGowan was at one time a prominent County Democracy politician, and was once the candidate of that faction for Civil Justice, but was beaten by Judge Kelly.

In his complaint he alleges that he has been Judge Power's financial backer for twenty years; that from January, 1890, to January, 1892, he spent $11,824.90 in behalf of the leader of the County Democracy, and that he loaned him $1,683 between 1870 and 1896; that McGowan loaned Power $1,000 in 1870, $1,000 in 1871, $1,00